Year 2000 Plans Outlined

by Sandra Barnes

A small audience of Greenbelt citizens, one, in addition to three members of the Advisory Planning Board and four members of the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG) listened, along with the city council, to two other COG members report on the Year 2000 Plan for the National Capital Region at an open hearing on the subject March 8. The hearing was held in the council chamber.

The purpose of the meeting was to provide information on the Year 2000 Plan in order to create a dialogue between government officials, citizens and COG in the hope that mutual understanding would help to make the plan viable.

The idea for the Year 2000 Plan was originally begun in the late 1950's, and in 1961 a report recommended "not a detailed plan for the physical development of the Region, but rather a set of policies to guide government decision-making and the preparation of physical plans." In 1963 all local jurisdictions considered the general plans for their respective areas, and in 1964 the Year 2000 Plan was adopted by COG, which draws its members from county and local governments, among them Greenbelt, who decide to join.

Recommendations

Briefly, the Year 2000 Plan recommended the following policies:

1. a general development pattern of new communities in corridors radiating from the central area,
2. regional open spaces, wedges, separating the corridors,
3. residential development to provide wide-range housing types (COG's Fair Share Housing Plan), which the Greenbelt city council will soon hold a hearing about,
4. community centers with a variety of employment, shopping and recreational opportunities,
5. a metro-center which would be the dominant daytime population center,
6. a transportation plan which would provide for a coordinated system of highways and mass transit facilities,
7. federal buildings, outside the metro-center, which would be planned, located and designed to promote the development of suburban business districts,
8. a coordinated system of urban design and treatment of open spaces and developed areas,
9. intergovernmental cooperation between federal, state and local governments for implementation of the plan.

However, the metropolitan region has changed in a number of major ways which affect the original policies adopted in 1964. Primarily, the population has grown much faster than that assumed in 1964; 7.7 million people are expected by the year 2000, which is 2.5 million more than was anticipated eight years ago (2 million being anticipated for Prince Georges County alone). In addition, there has been a faster growth in jobs than was anticipated. Unfortunately the projected transportation system has not progressed as expected; and problems in open space acquisition and preservation efforts have developed.

COG Senior Regional Planner, Krishna Murthy, and COG Director of Program Coordination, Dr. Bruce McDowell, explained that COG now had four alternative plans which take the above changing trends into consideration, placing particular emphasis on progress in transportation, housing and employment, water and sewer trends.

Eileen Turner, of the APB, asked how COG planned to enforce its plans on the local governments. It was explained that these very hearings in which COG officials outline their plans to citizens were expected to create concern within people in the area, who would in turn pressure their local governments to act in accordance with the regional plans. Murthy also stressed COG's need for input of local communities in framing plans for adoption.

Water Supply

Councilman Gil Weidenfeld asked if COG has ascertained whether there would be an adequate water supply by the year 2000. And councilwoman Rhea Cohen wanted to know if COG had any studies or could suggest legislation for controlling development in flood plains or had any ideas for on-site water retention. The answers to these questions were general; COG has some studies available, other studies are still being evaluated.

David Lange, the one interested citizen present, wanted to know if COG had studies available on whether housing was keeping up with population growth. Murthy replied that this was one of COG's major concerns. COG, it was also pointed out, was keeping close tabs on local plans. COG was most interested in a balanced community, socially, fiscally, and environmentally.

Other general questions were asked on how to protect "green belts" around communities, how to protect historical areas, how public facilities such as hospitals and fire departments were expected to keep up with population growth. COG officials noted that these factors would be taken up in their revised Year 2000 plan.

Most of COG's energies over the past decade have centered on the region's transportation problems, and COG is less expert in other areas, they noted. But all areas of concern by the citizens for the future of the region will, hopefully, be fashioned into a workable plan for the development of the region as a whole, not just separate little localities acting independently of each other. COG has a number of publications available to people which further explain the Year 2000 Plan.

Citizens Plunge Into Indoor Swim Pool -- Report, That Is

by Bob McGee

City council drew a packed house for its public hearing on the Ad Hoc Indoor Swimming Pool Committee report, Monday evening, March 13. One might have thought it was another hearing on Greenbriar, except that the tone of the meeting was definitely noncontroversial.

Significantly, there were no statements in opposition to the proposed indoor pool, although James Parochetti, 128 Hedgewood, worried about the building eating up additional open space in the vicinity of the present bathhouse, and Joseph O'Loughlin suggested that there is a certain amount of faddism involved with most sports, like swimming, which should be considered in long-range planning. The council did receive a 17 page letter from Mrs. Hazel Huffman, who it was reported, opposed the pool on moral grounds. It seems that Mrs. Huffman, an elderly citizen, favored an ice rink instead.

Stephen Polaschik, chairman of the pool committee, opened the meeting by reviewing the extensive amount of fact-gathering carried out by his group. He pointed out that Mrs. Leonie Penney, as a representative of the Greenbelt Aquatic Boosters Club, was the only member favoring the pool at the outset. The rest of the members had begun with no preconceived ideas, having been selected as representative of the community, but, as a result of their study, all members now favored the construction of an indoor pool. Polaschik gave kudos to councilman Charles Schwan, who served as chairman of the committee during its fact-finding stage, and to city manager James Giese and staff, especially William Edwards, administrative aide, for the work done by them. Numerous experts in recreation and swimming were consulted, and site visits to several area pools were made by the committee.

Objectives

Presentations were also made by other committee members. Dr. George Jones discussed recommendations for the pool and enclosure design. Muriel Weidenfeld discussed the bathhouse and health spa portion of the proposal, and Mrs. Penney discussed costs and revenue estimates. General objectives for the pool were that (1) the City of Greenbelt must be able to afford both the construction and the upkeep, (2) it must be designed for maximum durability and lowest maintenance, (3) it must be an attractive and comfortable place that people will enjoy using, and (4) it must be designed primarily as a recreational pool for all ages and suitable for a wide range of programs. Particular stress was put on design features to assure easy access to the elderly and handicapped persons.

Pool Characteristics

Among special features were the proposals for spectator viewing areas, a deck level whirlpool considered to be a therapeutic muscle relaxing device, and a food service and eating area. Dr. Milton Gabrielson, perhaps the foremost authority on swimming pools in the country, had suggested to the committee that "swimming and eating just naturally go together". The inclusion of a health spa, replete with sauna, bike trainer, ultra-violet lamp, treadmill, etc., would make a complete year-round facility which would be a definite inducement in obtaining members of all ages for the pool and for keeping the facility occupied during normally "off" hours.

Two different pool proposals were presented. One, at a projected cost of $391,675, would be the minimum size to meet present needs. It would be approximately 84 feet long, 45 feet wide, and would include a 12 by 12 wading pool for smaller children. The second proposal, at a projected cost of $441,075, added a 20 foot extension at the shallow end, to be separated by a bulkhead from the rest of the pool, to provide for swimming for younger age children. The proposal assumed that there would be sufficient interest in memberships and rentals to make the pool self supporting. But, as Mrs. Penney suggested, if worse came to worst, and the pool had to be shut down — a disaster — with the amortization costs to be paid off, it would cost most individual property owners approximately 50c per month. The city survey taken at the election two years ago was cited, with an indoor pool listed as the number one priority of Greenbelt citizens, in addition to an informal poll conducted by the Aquatic Boosters Club.

Matthias Vanderzon, 112 Northway, pointed out that the swimming club rents pool space 4 times a week and, because of the heavy demands on available pools, they must open a pool at 7 on Saturday morning and close another one at 9 on a Sunday evening. They can only permit 12 adults to swim in one lane because of the heavy demands by children. Even at these poor hours and poor conditions — traveling some distance at bad hours — they have a heavy demand and must pay rental of $25 per hour.

Councilman Gil Weidenfeld urged that a sampling survey of the entire community be made prior to the referendum to find out how many people would take memberships at $72 per year.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bridge said their Canoe Cruisers Club had difficulty finding pools to rent and that they would definitely be rental prospects for a pool in Greenbelt. Marie White, 124 Hedgewood, said that she was speaking for the Golden Agers, who favored the health spa facilities particularly.

Councilwoman Betty Maffay said that she hoped there would be an educational campaign funded by the city. Councilman Schwan stated that, though he did not expect to use the facility, he definitely favored the indoor pool as enhancing the worth of the community. The upshot of the meeting was that council, in Mayor Pilski's words, "would undoubtedly go on record as favoring a referendum and that it would be up to the people to decide." It was thought that the referendum would probably be set for September.

As this reporter left the meeting, he noticed Mr. Parochetti pacing off the area down by the bathhouse in the dark, casting some doubt that all of the people were solidly in favor of the pool. Only time and discussion will tell.

Scout Troop 202

Greenbelt's oldest Boy Scout Troop, 28-year-old Troop 202, on March 10, 1972 received as gifts both the Prince Georges County and the Maryland State Flags. Both flags were the gift of County Councilman Francis White who appeared at the Troop's Friday night meeting and presented the flags to Scoutmaster John Taylor and Troop Committee Chairman Albert Wheatley, as both Scouts and parents looked on. Also eight boys received medals for having completed the Lincoln Historic Trail in Washington, a 16-mile foot hike. The next day the Troop hiked over to Camp Connastoga in the Greenbelt Park where they camped overnight.

NOW DAY GROUP

The National Organization for Woman (NOW) is forming a daytime consciousness-raising group. Any woman interested in discussing ideas relating to female discrimination are invited to attend the first meeting on March 17, 10 a.m. at 8410 15th Ave., Langley Park. Phone 439-8712 for information.

Discourteous Treatment

To the Editor:

On March 1, I sent a letter to Mayor Pilski concerning the unnecessarily discourteous manner in which he and other members of the council treated the majority of the private citizens who appeared before the city council to oppose the Greenbriar sewage treatment plant. . . I have spent many hours away from my family in an effort to educate Mayor Pilski and the council of the hazardous conditions that would result from the sewage effluent. In place of a "thank you" I was subjected to some unnecessary insults from Mayor Pilski. It was interesting to observe that Dr. Cookson and other individuals employed by developer Alan Kay were treated with considerably more courtesy by the mayor.

Instead of listening to a discussion of the advisability or inadvisability of having a sewage plant in Greenbelt, the council subjected the citizens to a long series of immature rantings directed against a fellow council member. The undesirability of having treated sewage flowing into a stream accessible to the citizens of Greenbelt, College Park and Bervyn Heights still remains even though some of the elected officials have tried to becloud the issue with childish character assassination against those who oppose the plant.

The City Council of Greenbelt thoughtfully admitted that they were not qualified to assess the health hazards that the Greenbriar sewage treatment plant would provide and they indicated that such a decision would have to be made by the County Health Officer, Dr. Perry Stearns. Dr. Stearns has registered his opposition to the proposed plant in a letter to the Prince Georges County Council dated February 14. I would like to hear the Greenbelt City Council now emphatically state: "This council opposes the temporary sewage treatment plant for Greenbriar since our county health officer considers it to be a potential health hazard to the citizens of Greenbelt." How about it, Mayor Pilski and members of the council?

Sidney Shifrin

Amendment Needed

To the Editor:

Judging from your interpretive report of the Greenbriar sewage "Conflict," it only remains for the four members of city council to join the mainstream of thought and register their unequivocal, unconditional and absolute opposition to the proposed plant. At the council meeting you reported on, several citizens called for council opposition to the plant. Mr. Lange repeated his concern for proper planning, which is not evident in the proposed plant. Mr. McGee repeated the News Review view that there is no compelling economic or social value to be derived from the plant. I asked for Council's unconditional opposition, based on the 10 points listed by SOCC on January 10, which included not only reasons of health and ecology, but planning, lack of need and the problem of sludge removal (which is a growing county and regional problem, even at permanent plants). The only person at that council meeting who gave any indication of preference for the proposed plant was Mr. Goldfaden.

Your interpretive report indicates that statesmanship is required: Maybe so; however, I think the ingredient needed is leadership. This city cannot continue to be the victim of the whims and whimsies of every public agency in the county and state that reports on and acts on matters that concern the residents of Greenbelt. All too often the problems caused by these "expert" actions are left for Greenbelters to solve at tremendous cost. It is imperative that Greenbelt city council be resolved that it opposes the location of a sewage treatment plant within Greenbelt. The Schwan resolution doesn't quite make it. I would hope it is amended to echo the thoughts of the majority of Greenbelters.

Parents Discussion Group

The Greenbelt Parent Discussion Group will meet on Wed., March 22 at the Baptist Church. The topic to be discussed will be "How to Cope With Teasing."

All parents of any age children are welcome. The discussions are informal, free, and babysitting is provided.

An Unnecessary Risk

To the Editor:

We are being asked to approve a private venture that may injure the public. For five months we have witnessed a major lobbying effort to set up a pilot plant here, to be built by Inflico, a division of Westinghouse Corporation. Another Westinghouse subsidiary, Urban Systems Development Corporation, owns 90% of the Glen Ora tract and has employed sewage expert Cookson to testify before the city and county councils.

A sewage treatment plant for Greenbriar and Glen Ora is an unnecessary risk, just as the County Health Officer has pointed out.

A favorable decision calls for certainty, and the only certainty there is, is that if the plant were to break down, it could not be shut down. Once they move in, people will continue to live in the Greenbriar and Glen Ora Apartments and sewage will continue to flow to the plant, even in the case of malfunction.

The trouble is that there is no working model for the Greenbriar plant, operating at the same projected capacity under the same conditions and made by the same manufacturer. There are too many questions and too many uncertainties to justify experimenting on a community.

Palm Sunday Services

Four Greenbelt church choirs will present a combined choral program of Lenten and Easter music at the Greenbelt Community Church on Palm Sunday, March 26, at 7:30 p.m. Participating are choir members from St. Hugh's Catholic, Holy Cross Lutheran, United Methodist and United Church of Christ (Community) churches.

Everyone in the Greenbelt community is invited to attend this special musical service. A combination of congregational hymns and anthems from the choir will relate the familiar story of our Savior's death and resurrection.

Refreshments and a social hour in the church parlors will follow the musical program.

Robert Forbes of the Mowatt Memorial United Methodist Church will direct the chorus. Soloists include the Rev. Mr. Michael Burchick, Jean Cook, and Tom Grenchik, of St. Hugh's; Alice Tompkins and Harold Hufendick of the Community Church and Nancy Kressin, flutist, of Holy Cross Lutheran.

Jewish Book Review

The second in a series of Jewish book discussions will take place on Friday, March 17 following services which begin at 8:30 p.m. at the Mishkan Torah. Bernard Malamud's book "The Fixer" will be reviewed by Dr. Samuel Soseloff of Georgetown University.

Recreation Review

Tennis

The Braden Field tennis courts have been reserved on Saturday and Sunday, March 18 and 19, from 8 to 12 noon. They will reopen for play at 12:30 p.m.

Spring Registration

Registration for the Recreation Department's Spring Program will be held the first week in April. Register in person, April 4 and 5, at the Recreation Center from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and at Springhill Lake Elementary School, April 6 from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

Greenbelt will soon have a weekend art gallery at the Ridge Road Center, sponsored by the Recreation Department. Gallery will include shows by individuals, local arts and craftsmen, students, and children. Keep an eye on this column for dates.

Real Slow Slow-Pitch

The game of 16" slow-pitch will be played in Greenbelt this summer. A recreationally oriented schedule is being set up for six teams from the Greenbelt Community. Team openings are limited to resident, civic, fraternal, business and social organizations; participants are limited to males over 25 years of age. Single round robin play will begin in May. Reserve an opening with the League Commissioner, Hank Irving at 474-6878.

Arts and Crafts

Children aged 6-12 are invited to Arts and Crafts at Springhill Lake Elementary School, Saturday from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

Storytime

Children in the first and second grades are invited to Storytime at the Greenbelt Library, Tuesday from 3:30-4:30 p.m.

Drum Lessons for Boys

The Greenbelt Goldiggers are looking for boys aged 6-12 for beginning drum lessons. A small fee will be charged. Registration will be held from 6-9 p.m. on Thursday, March 16 and Thursday, March 23.

Parkdale Presents Concert

The Parkdale bands and orchestra will present an evening of instrumental music on Friday evening, March 17 at 8 p.m. at Parkdale High School.

Tickets will be available at the door; half price for children.

CITY NOTES

Cost-wise the city's paper and glass recycling programs seem to be self-sustaining—that is the assessment of Public Works Director Albert Attick. On the average, about three tons of glass are transported every month to the recycling plant in Baltimore, bringing an approximate revenue of $52. According to Attick, there appears to be a steady and consistent "clientele" who regularly bring their discarded glassware to the bins at the city warehouse.

Paper pickups are less regular in amount. Inclement weather on the regular pickup day particularly cuts into the amount set out. On March 3 only about 14 tons was collected—far below what was expected. The next paper pickup date is this Friday—March 17. In case of rain on that date, citizens are asked to hold their papers for pickup on the first Friday in April—the 7th.

Two new employees have been hired by the Public Works Dept. Cecil Isles has joined the Parks crew, and Marjorie Gross has been employed as a member of the building and maintenance crew.

Lakeside Citizens Meet

The Lakeside Citizens Association will have its annual meeting and election of officers on Tuesday, March 21. The buffet will start at 6:30 p.m. and meeting at 8 p.m. The affair will not be held at the Ridge Road Center as originally planned, but at the Youth Center.

Now in his 5th year of gypsy life, "world traveller on a shoestring" Ronald Charles of 2-D Gardenway recently celebrated his 29th birthday in Molawi, East Africa. Ronnie has now hitch-hiked thru over 60 countries in Europe, Asia and Africa demonstrating Judo techniques. He is a Black Belt of the First Dan having received his degree while in Tokyo, Japan. His last few stops have been Kenya, Rhodesia, Mozambique and Molawi and he is now heading for Dar-es-Salaam, Tanzania. Ronnie reports that the natives are very friendly.

Competing with approximately 150 pairs in a recent City-Wide Tournament, Peggy Wainwright and Gretchen Eanes narrowly missed winning first place overall.

For the 24 board match, Peggy and Gretchen had a score of 179½ points and the winners had a score of 180½. Average was 132. The city-wide event arranged by the Washington Bridge Unit carried a near, sectional rating and identical hands are played at participating clubs in the D.C. and Northern Virginia area at the same time.

The Top of the Mornin' (or evening) to you from the top of the Greenbelt Shopping Center; we love being up here, and we love the privilege of seeing our Greenbelt friends as often as possible. We're wearing the Green banner of a growing part of our community. Visit us soon!

DUBLIN' up in your present home? Let us show you this beautiful 4 bedroom 2 bath centrally air-conditioned brick and shingle rambler with full basement, rec. room with bar and many extras; the space you need is here, and the price of $29,950 is less than the FHA appraisal.

Did your Mother come from Ireland, or Iowa or Idaho? you'll have plenty of room to make her comfortable in this 6 bedroom, 2½ bath split-level on a beautiful ¼ acre lot. This home, located in Boxwood Village, has all the features you expect in a luxury home, and has been reduced to $44,000; you'll be "Wearin the Grin" for a long time if you take advantage of this value.

ERIN now we would like to tell you about a 3 bedroom Cape Cod home with a basement, close to shopping, with a level fenced lawn, and a pick-up truckload of appliances, offered on FHA or VA terms at $21,000 total; this excellent starter home can be yours very soon; located in Eastpines, and don't worry, you'll love it!

AVALON or Avondale, you'll think it's all the same when you see this handsome all brick colonial in a most convenient location; many extras including carpeting, Central air-conditioning, fireplace, full basement with rec-room.

BLARNEY STONES! No, but you'll find plenty of large GREEN trees and shrubs, around this 3 bedroom sep-dining room, all brick townhouse in Greenbelt, (green) wall/wall carpet, drapes, washer, window A/C, close to Library and Greenbelt shopping center. Total Price $21,500.

LEPRECHAUN! buy this home! Well you sure can, if you hurry; a home to be proud of. Two bedroom end townhouse, kitchen has ref., stove, washer & dryer, garbage disposal, dish washer, also you'll find W/W carpeting, 2 window A/C, storage shed, and a large covered patio, in a beautifully manicured lawn. See it, you'll like it.

Buying or Selling? Well let us remind you that there is still plenty of mortgage money available, we can get you in a home for as little as 10% down. Call one of our experienced salesmen today, for any information you may need, whether it be buying a home or selling one. We will be glad to assist you.
